When kids understand virtues they tap into character strengths that guide them when faced with decisions between right and wrong, good from bad, or when they find themselves experiencing personal challenges and difficulties.

TACT

Tact is thinking before you speak.

Being tactful is sharing your thoughts, feelings and opinions with others in a way that makes it easier for them to accept.

Often you know things that you could say, but saying them may hurt someone. Rather than telling a lie, being tactful means that you look for a way to share the truth so that it helps rather than hurts the other person. This is especially important when you feel angry or upset.

Being tactful also means knowing when to stay silent.

You are practicing
when you...

- Think before you speak
- Decide if it is better to tell the truth or keep silent
- Often keep unpleasant or critical thoughts to yourself
- Become sensitive to other people's feeling
- Tell the truth kindly and gently

Affirmation:

I act with tact. I think before I speak. I am considerate of other people's feelings. I tell the truth kindly and gently.
